

The Intelligent Portfolio Risk Engine

Be Tactical & Strategic

Today's carriers have plenty of data, all in the pursuit of making more informed and impactful choices to build a healthy combined ratio. But data about policies, from public records, of the weather forecast and of critical property attributes are all far less powerful apart than if they were united.

With Arturo, now you can visualize your risk at a given moment across the policy lifecycle, enabling a robust pipeline of new policies, decreased costs with claims payouts and ultimately a strong portfolio. This dynamic, role-based portfolio management solution can help you make both tactical and strategic decisions with intelligence.

GO HEAD-TO-HEAD WITH CLIMATE CHANGE

Adequately preparing for disaster mandates understanding a book's vulnerability — and what that means for capital reserves, for resourcing, for risk selection. It also demands a new level of response, before, during, and after a natural catastrophe.

With the ability to pair your portfolio against our property intelligence, you can prioritize and triage for what needs attention, be it a rash of claims from a natural disaster, a swath of homes that are underinsured for their severity or anything in between.

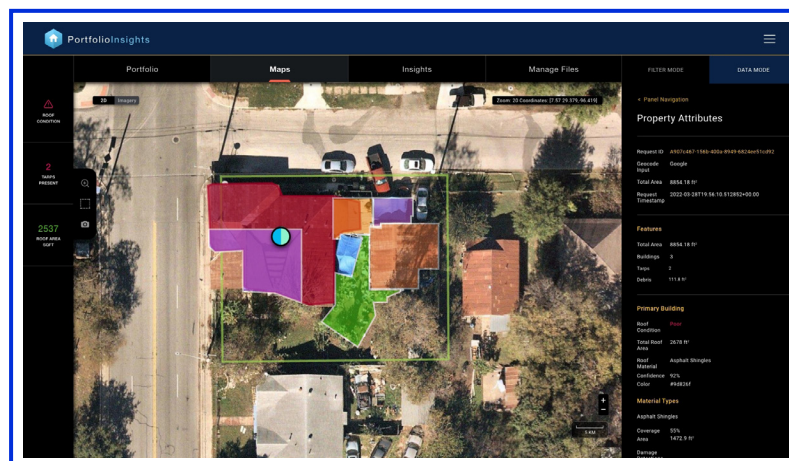

GLEAN POWERFUL INSIGHTS WITH ARTURO INTELLIGENCE

Now, you can ladder up structure information, like roof materials, solar panel count and more. With this aggregated analysis, you can plan at the local level, sending out targeted communications to policyholders to incentivize better behavior. You can also better prepare and capitalize for potential costs around claims.
